TRENTBRIDGE FOR DOUBLE TENTH PLATE

FAST TIME EXPECTED IN MAIN EVENT

King's Parade And Soldier Of Britain For Daily Double

(BY "MORNING DEW")

The main attraction in to-day's race programme is the sprint event open to all China ponies at weight for inches. Two of the best ponies in the Colony, Trentbridge and Diana Bay are accepting, and we should see a rattling performance. Trentbridge is going to the post under Mr. A. J. P. Heard while Diana Bay is starting under Mr. B. A. Proulx. Trentbridge is favoured to win.

Several very open races are on the card and a good tussle may be seen in the Hunan Handicap, where the best griffins of this season will be matched over a mile. Soldier of Britain will be conceding seven pounds to Electric Star and fourteen to Hydroplane, the Derby winner. Gladiator is in this race too and a thrilling finish may be expected.

Another very open event is the last race on the card, where Cavalcade will have to carry 165 pounds against the best griffins of this year. Tiny Star (168 pounds) who was so successful at the Annual Meeting will make his first appearance in the second half of the season to-day. Copper Idol, Classic Hall, and Sarabande will form the main opposition.

First Race Problem For Punters

Punters will have to make a difficult decision in the opening race as The Bodega and Little Beauty, who finished practically together on Saturday, will meet in a return match. It is not certain who will ride The Bodega, for I hear that Mr. Taylor will go out on Chesterfield, who is running very well these days and should not be far away. The Bodega's weight of 161 pounds appears a bit too much for him, and consequently I expect Little Beauty to turn the tables on him, with Chesterfield running them both very close. Hell for Leather is a good outsider here.

BIG DIVIDEND LIKELY
The second race ought to provide a fairly good dividend even if some of the best backed ponies turned up, for there is every likelihood of a very excellent race. I like Ribble (Mr. Botelho) but the pony is by no means a "cert" as he will be up against Lemberg (Mr. Charles) who should find the mile and a quarter more suited to him than the six furlongs last Saturday. Then there is Valorous (Mr. Heard) who won comfortably last Saturday and again there are such other ponies as Flying Tourist (Mr. Soares), Bistre (Mr. Black), Wonderful Stag (Mr. Deitz), any which might account for a big dividend, to say nothing of Monoplane (Mr. Pan) who is in at a comfortable weight. This is a very open race, and if Ribble, Lemberg or Valorous should all fall to catch the judge's eye, those who succeed in finding the winner should be very happy.

THE BIG RACE

Although there are eight entries in the Double Tenth Plate, I don't think it will be necessary to look further than Diana Bay and Trentbridge. Possibly Soldier of Britain might give these two a race, but I hear he is going out in the one mile race for griffins. From past performances Trentbridge should not find it difficult to beat the Dunbar candidate, though with Mr. Benny Proulx up on the latter, anything might happen, as a flying start in such a short race (which Mr. Proulx is bound to get for Diana Bay) will mean a good deal. Sacko is going out here and should secure third place in the absence of Soldier of Britain.

KING'S PARADE

The first leg of the daily double is on the Kwangtung Handicap, a "D" Class race over a mile. King's Parade who is down to 148 pounds should win this event. He will be starting under Mr. Heard, and looking over the opposition, I find there is very little to beat. Racing Triumph with only 140 pounds, might offer the favourite a race, and National Day, whose weight is also down to 140 pounds is a bad thing here, though one can hardly see him account for King's Parade. Boxing Eve carries 161 pounds and if I were looking for a good outsider, I should certainly back this old warrior.

THE "B" CLASS

It is difficult to say whether Macaroni is starting here or in the next race over a mile, where he is in at a comfortable weight. The opposition in the shorter race is quite formidable, however, and the probabilities are that Macaroni will start here. He has a good chance of winning, unless Brechin, who appears to be fighting it at the moment, turns up. Bright View is another good thing for this race, and Soldier of Germany would not be a bad bet for a place, although the handicapper has given him 161 pounds.

NAVY'S NEW ROLE

To the many duties which the British Navy performs in Chinese waters another has been added. This is the dissemination of news from troubled areas—news which is eagerly seized upon by the Chinese population as being the only information upon which reliance can be placed.

The reports are doing much to allay the alarm spread by the wild rumours continually radiated from the trouble centres.

Owing to the strict censorship which is imposed by the Chinese military authorities from areas under martial law, the uncontented British naval news is featured by Chinese newspapers throughout the country.

MR. CHURCHILL'S DAUGHTER

Action For Divorce

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 22. The "Daily Telegraph" was informed last night that Mrs. John Milner Bailey—the former Miss Diana Churchill, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Winston Churchill—is seeking a divorce.

Mr. John Milner Bailey is the son of Sir Abe Bailey by his first marriage. Mrs. Bailey's petition is expected to be heard during the Michaelmas sittings, which begin on Oct. 2.

The wedding took place at St. Margaret's, Westminster, in December, 1932.

SIR P. SASSOON

To Fly To Singapore

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 22. Sir Philip Sassoon, Under-Secretary of State for Air, will on Saturday start from Calcutta in a new Short Singapore III flying-boat on a flight to Singapore.

In the course of the flight he will make a tour of R.A.F. units in the overseas commands and will visit Malta, Cairo, Baghdad, and Basra. From there he will continue the journey by Imperial Airways to Sharjah, and make short halts at Jodhpur, Calcutta, Rangoon, Alor Star, Penang, and Kuala Lumpur, arriving at Singapore on October 9.

Sir Philip will begin the return journey by Imperial Airways on October 14. Among other places, he will visit Peshawar and Risalpur, and is due to arrive at Croydon on October 29, when he will have travelled 19,300 miles.

SIR FREDERICK MAZE

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 22. Sir Frederick Maze, Inspector-General of Customs in China, who sailed for China on September 8 in the Empress of Britain, is returning immediately to England.

Reuters' Agency states that instructions from the Chinese Government were awaiting Sir Frederick on the latter's arrival at Queen's, and he immediately took up his return by the same ship, which was at Southampton this week.

THE CHEESE

With Cigars And Champagne

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 22. This was a great day at Simpson's in Cheapside—where City men who do congregate for lunch and the daily ceremony of "guessing the cheese."

For to-day, for the first time for two years and six months, the cheese was correctly "guessed"—weight, height, and girth. The correct guesser was Mr. E. W. Johnson, a fur and skin merchant, of College-hill, E.C. The figures were: height, 124 inches, girth, 314 inches, weight, 30lb.

The ceremony of the cheese goes way back to 1793. Whosoever guesses it correctly has his name printed on a card, framed, and put up on the wall behind the chairman's table. And to mark the occasion champagne and cigars are served "on the house."

THE NEW COLOUR FILMS

"La Cucuracha"

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 20. A new colour film, "La Cucuracha" ("The Cockroach"), which will shortly be shown to the public in London, is the latest development of the three-colour Technicolour process used for the Disney cartoons.

Robert Edmund Jones, the New York theatre designer, arranged the sets and costumes with a special view to emphasising colour effect, and he has certainly succeeded in getting some startling results, especially with blue and petunia shades. The film is entirely free from "fringing" or overlapping of colours, and it does seem to be, on the whole, an advance on any colour system yet employed. The intense heat produced, however, during the filming of these colour subjects which require more than three times the intensity of light used for black-and-white photography—still makes the process less successful with living players than with cartoon work like the Silly Symphonies, and the tendency to flushing and fading has not yet been eliminated.

"La Cucuracha," which stars the Hungarian player Stern Duna, is really a dramatic song-and-dance number in two reels, but it has been planned to use the new Technicolour process for the Francis Lederer picture, "The Three Musketeers," and for the film version of "The Last Days of Pompeii," now in preparation.

DOROTHY ROUND

Wins Another Title

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 20. Miss Round, the Wimbledon champion, completed a year of triumph by easily beating Mrs. Maurice King, the holder, in the South of England women's singles final on Saturday.

All her shots were good. Her service alone was so severe that it won her many aces, and her drives were so fast and so fluent that often Mrs. King failed to make any attempt to return them. It was a great fight for six games, after that Miss Round lost only two more. Her first appearance at Eastbourne was this very successful.

Nigel Sharpe, won the men's title with an easy victory over E. D. Andrews, of New Zealand. While Sharpe was at his very best, perfectly suited by the conditions, Andrews showed signs of his terrific struggle against C. E. Hare on Friday.

SHARPE'S FEW ERRORS

The mistakes Sharpe made in the two sets were scarcely more than a dozen, but Andrews, often gained position, and then—very unlike him—failed with the decisive shot.

LONDON NOTES

By The Air Mail

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 22. The King's cars which brought Princess Marina, Prince George, and other members of the party from Ballater to Balmoral made short work of the journey as compared with the carriages and outriders of an earlier period.

The drive up the valley is eight miles long. It might have been much shorter had not Queen Victoria issued a "ne plus ultra" decree to the railway, which stopped the line at Ballater and not at Braemar, the obvious terminus.

It is some time since Balmoral has had so many Royal persons within its walls as it has now. At one period or another, practically every crowned head in Europe had been there, including the Emperor Frederick, William II., and the unfortunate Tsar Nicholas II.

The Tsar was heavily guarded on the brief visit he paid to his grandmother-in-law, as an assassination attempt by nihilists was feared.

Last year King Boris of Bulgaria was the principal Royal guest.

THE VILLA D'ESTE

At the Villa d'Este, on Lake Como, the Prince of Wales will be able to enjoy some of the most perfect lake bathing in the world. Its waters are in genial contrast to those of the other Italian and Swiss lakes. This is owing to there being no outlet at the Como end.

Good swimmers can easily swim from the Villa d'Este across the lake, which there is about a mile and a half wide.

Amid the beauties of Como many statesmen and poets have found solace since they were first celebrated by the Roman Pliny in the second century A.D.

The old Villa d'Este was for some time the residence of the unfortunate Queen Caroline—King George IV's consort—during her period of enforced exile.

THE RECORDERSHIP OF LONDON

The proceedings in connection with the vacant Recordership at to-day's meeting of the Court of Aldermen will be purely formal. The Lord Mayor will merely report Sir Ernest Wild's death.

It is too early yet to speak with any confidence of his successor. Various names, however, are already mentioned.

One is Mr. J. D. Cassels. Two months ago Mr. Cassels, who is M.P. for North-West Camberwell, announced that he would not stand at the next election. If he became Recorder of London he would not have the same reluctance to sacrifice his seat as Sir Ernest Wild had on his appointment.

A GENIAL CRIMINAL LAWYER

Another well-known criminal lawyer who has obvious qualifications for the post is Sir Henry Curtis-Bennett.

Some years ago he gave up politics. But his professional duties have not prevented him from being a great orator, as he has said himself, a bulky dinner-out.

His genial presence adds gaiety to many City functions. No man knows better how to enliven an after-dinner speech with a graceful story against himself.

He is, incidentally, Senior Warden of that somewhat esoteric body, the Gold and Silver Wire Drawers' Company.

the back of the court, and let his opponent make the errors. But he showed once or twice that he could produce a winning volley when it was required. It is the first time he has won at Eastbourne, after several attempts.

C. E. Hare and R. Miki had a fairly easy win over G. E. Bean and C. M. Jones in the men's doubles final. Miss. F. H. and Miss. McAlpine fought gallantly against Miss Round and Miss Healey, and were rewarded with four games in each set, all of which they thoroughly deserved.

M. J. R. Hare won the England Veterans' singles championship in the first year after the war; he won it again on Saturday for the fifth time beating C. O. Turkey in a three-set, final—a great performance.

ASTON VILLA

Need Plan Of Campaign

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 20. Aston Villa are in trouble this season because of the third-back game. They paid a record five-figure transfer fee to Portsmouth for Allen, the England centre-half. Allen is playing his usual third-back game, but the Villa wing-halves—Gibson and Gardner—and the inside-forwards—Beresford and Astley—showed few signs of being able to fall in with this system in the match with Sunderland. The result was a top in the middle of the field in which Sunderland cut all sorts of capers.

Sunderland are an exceptionally clever and attractive team, but that does not excuse the humiliating comparisons produced on Saturday. The Villa's methods need an overhaul.

Sunderland's Combination Wing-halves and inside-forwards must confer and form a system of linking-up with the "third-back" if the new Villa football, which is coming in for much criticism in Birmingham, is to be made to pay. But it is doubtful whether the Villa's friends will ever be pleased with third-back tactics; the club's reputation has been built on an attacking game.

There were times when Sunderland toyed with the home team. Their combination was delightful and their team-work admirable. There was not a weak spot in the side and they were unlucky not to win as they struck the framework of the goal four times.

On the Villa side Morton in goal was the day's hero, but of the rest only Gardner, Waring and Houghton played well. They took the lead through Astley, but twenty minutes from the end Allen kicked a centre from Connor through his own goal.

BRENTFORD HOLD BLACKPOOL

Blackpool Brentford

With their team disorganised almost from the start owing to an injury to James, their centre-half, Brentford put up a fine performance at Blackpool, not only by taking a point but the manner in which they accomplished it.

James received a severe gash on his forehead when he collided with Hesterman, the pair went for the ball together. Twice he went off the field, and when he returned a second time with his head swathed in bandages he took up the outside-left position. This meant an almost complete reshuffling of the team, and in the circumstances Brentford put up a display that entitled them to the highest praise.

Had they been at full strength throughout they must have won. They were far quicker on the ball than Blackpool, and in fact, were superior in every phase of the game.

Blackpool Bewildered

The swift, incisive raids of the Brentford forwards often had the Blackpool defenders bewildered. The Blackpool attack, with the exception of Hampson, and in lesser degree Finan, was poor. Bralliford, tried at outside-right, made the opening for the first goal, but was not a success. This is a position that Blackpool will have to strengthen.

Brentford's first goal, after 14 minutes, was a simple affair, and was directly due to a bad mistake by P. Watson, who failed to reach the ball with his head, and left Muttitt, a fast and clever forward, with a clear course for goal. Blackpool equalised through Hampson five minutes from the interval.

Thus, in the first quarter of an hour after the interval the Blackpool goal had narrow escapes. Holliday shot over from eight yards out, and then the Brentford centre-forward gave Wallace the chance to make the best save of the match.

Dougall gave Blackpool the lead after 70 minutes with a terrific long-range shot following a free kick, but in a last desperate Brentford rally Scott equalised a minute from time.

(Special Air Mail Special)

London, Sept. 20. Fifty years ago to-day the present "General" of the Salvation Army, Miss Evangeline Booth, was married in Hackney and marched half a mile to Mile-end Police Station by a constable.

The inspector at the station refused to admit the charge of obstruction. "Sergeant-major Booth, as she then was, returned in triumph to the training home at the Head of her troops."

WILD ANIMALS IN SIAM

Plea For Protection

Bangkok, Sept. 26.
Dr. McCormick Smith, for many years United States Commissioner of Fisheries, and for a number of years past Adviser in Fisheries in Siam, is leaving Siam early in October for good.
He has all through his stay in this country been interested in the introduction of legislation for animal protection. Speaking at a gathering of the Natural History Section of the Siam Society last week he made a moving plea for wild animal conservation. If Mr. Theodore Hubback has worked towards the solving of this problem in Malaya Dr. Smith has worked on similar lines in this country.
At the meeting mentioned above he told the audience, almost wholly composed of members interested in natural history, that Siam has the opportunity and the responsibility of arresting the unrestricted slaughter of wild creatures that is going on everywhere, many of them species that give the country great distinction in the realm of zoology.

For certain major species it is necessary to take speedy action, otherwise it will be eternally too late. He feared the time was past when it is possible to save either species of rhino, one of which may already be totally exterminated, and the other is going fast.

There is not a single species of land animal in Siam—whether mammal, bird or reptile—with the exception of the elephant that may not be killed by any means, at any time, in any place, in any numbers.

No other country in the world has been so indifferent to the welfare of its wild animals, and is all the more surprising in that Siam is the most outstanding follower of the Great Teacher, one of whose noble injunctions was against the taking of life.

It may be added that the Siam Society took the initial action in urging the cause of the wild creatures. The principles and the details of necessary conservation measures have been fully worked out.

An excellent draft law is pending and the matter has been placed by the Government under the able charge of the Conservator of Forests, who is working to secure the enforcement of legislation that will give to the wild life of Siam its first freedom from unregulated, indiscriminate slaughter.

A GO-ANY WHERE VEHICLE

Test Carried Out

A short while ago the well known electrical contractors, Messrs. Siemens Bauunion, of Berlin, ordered a Scammell Pioneer type cross-country rigid six-wheeled vehicle, with front wheel drive, for use in undeveloped countries where the transport of plant, stores and sublike presents considerable difficulties.

A most interesting test of this vehicle was recently carried out at the Scammell works at Watford, when its capabilities were amply demonstrated. In the course of the test two boards were placed against the wall of building at an angle of about 70 degrees to the horizontal, and the front wheels of the machine were then driven up and down the boards. Owing to the patented design of the final drive the rear wheels are unaffected by the movement of the front wheels, and may move independently of each other in a vertical direction when negotiating rough ground. It is thus possible for one rear wheel on one side to be as much as 2 ft. above its fellow on the same side.

This type of vehicle has been in production for the past 7 or 8 years, and a number of these machines were used over the dreadful lava country in Trans-Jordan on pipe-stringing work for the recently completed Iraq pipe-line.

T. PRIESTLEY

To Be Headmaster

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 20.
T. Priestley, the Chelsea and Irish International forward, has been appointed headmaster of Aghadowey School, Co. Londonderry, Ireland. Priestley, for whom Chelsea paid £2000 to Linfield, the Irish League club, refused to re-sign at the end of last season.
This appointment confirms the statement made several weeks ago, that Priestley was extremely unlikely to play for Chelsea again.
He was out of the team most of last season because of an injury to an eye.
He is of course, entirely within his rights. A footballer's contract is only for one season. Priestley may not, without the approval of Chelsea, sign for any Football League club or for any club affiliated to the Scottish, Irish or Welsh Football Associations, who recognise the Soccer transfer system.

COALS OF FIRE

Asbestos Gloves For The Air Force

Orders for a supply of fire-resisting gloves were recently placed by the British Air Ministry after a series of tests, which were remarkable for their severity. For instance, a man wearing a pair of these asbestos gloves was required to pick up a piece of blazing coal from a fire and hold it until it had gone black.

Following this, the gloves, which are known as the Bestobell, were tested to show that they were sufficiently pliable to allow the wearer to manipulate a small nut and bolt while both were red hot. Yet other requirements were that the gloved hand should be held in the forced draught of a blacksmith's forge for half a minute, to bend a red hot 1/2-inch rod with the hands and to grasp a similar steel rod until its temperature had fallen from cherry red to black heat. All the tests were passed satisfactorily, the wearer suffering no discomfort or injury.

These gloves will enable aircraftmen to carry out adjustments on engines without waiting for them to cool and will also form an extremely valuable item of equipment in cases of fire.

Sail Round The World

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 22.
Three young Englishmen, Lieutenant Commander W. Hollins, R.N., a nephew of Lord Mottistone, and Messrs. F. Pelham Maitland and Penoyre, of the original crew of eight (all of whom with one exception were amateur yachtsmen), returned to Cowes yesterday in the 54-ton auxiliary ketchrigged yacht Vanora after a 34,000-mile cruise virtually round the world.

They left Cowes in June, 1932, for Tenerife, thence they went to Trinidad and on through the Panama Canal to Pearl Island, the Galapagos Islands and Society Islands, the Fiji Islands and various Pacific Islands, British North Borneo, Singapore, and Sabang.

Owing to light winds, which prevented the crossing of the Indian Ocean, the homeward voyage was made via Mauritius, Durban, East London, Capetown, St. Helena, Ascension, Cape Verde Islands, the Azores, and Scilly Islands.

Commander Hollins, who was the navigating officer, said that the yacht did the greater part of the voyage under sail, the motor being rarely used.

Mr. William Wykeham, another nephew of Lord Mottistone, who with Commander Hollins organised the voyage, returned home in October when the yacht was in the Philippine Islands.

Romance Of Orient

There is no more romantic place in the world than the Far East. Clash of two philosophies as far apart as the poles, that of the white race and the natives, has stirred the imaginations of writers since time immemorial.

The most colourful spot in the Far East is Burma. The Burmese, a race apart from the Hindus with whom they are generally classed by the uninformed, are a proud, cultured, upright, intelligent people, far superior to the languid, procrastinating natives usually found in the tropics.

Burma supplies the colourful setting for "Mandalay" the first National production, featuring Kay Francis with Ricardo Cortez, Warner Oland and Lyle Talbot, which comes to the Alhambra Theatre on Saturday 13th. inst.

Paul Hervey Fox, the author, knows the Far East as well as well as Kipling as evidenced by his many entrancing stories placed in that background.

In "Mandalay" he has written the story of Tanya, a Russian refugee, rescued from the Bolsheviks by an unscrupulous soldier of fortune, who sells her into virtual slavery to a resort keeper. Her flight and pursuit on a boat bound from Rangoon to Mandalay forms one of the most thrilling dramas screened. Michael Curtiz directed the picture from the screen play by Austin Parker and Charles Kenyon.

MOVIE NEWS

Ethel Barrymore, who has just celebrated her fifty-fifth birthday, has announced her intention of returning to the stage in "Laura Garnett" a play based on the life of the late Isadora Duncan.

Gary Cooper will be seen as a reporter for the first time if he accepts the leading role, opposite Carole Lombard in "The Case Against Mrs. Ames."

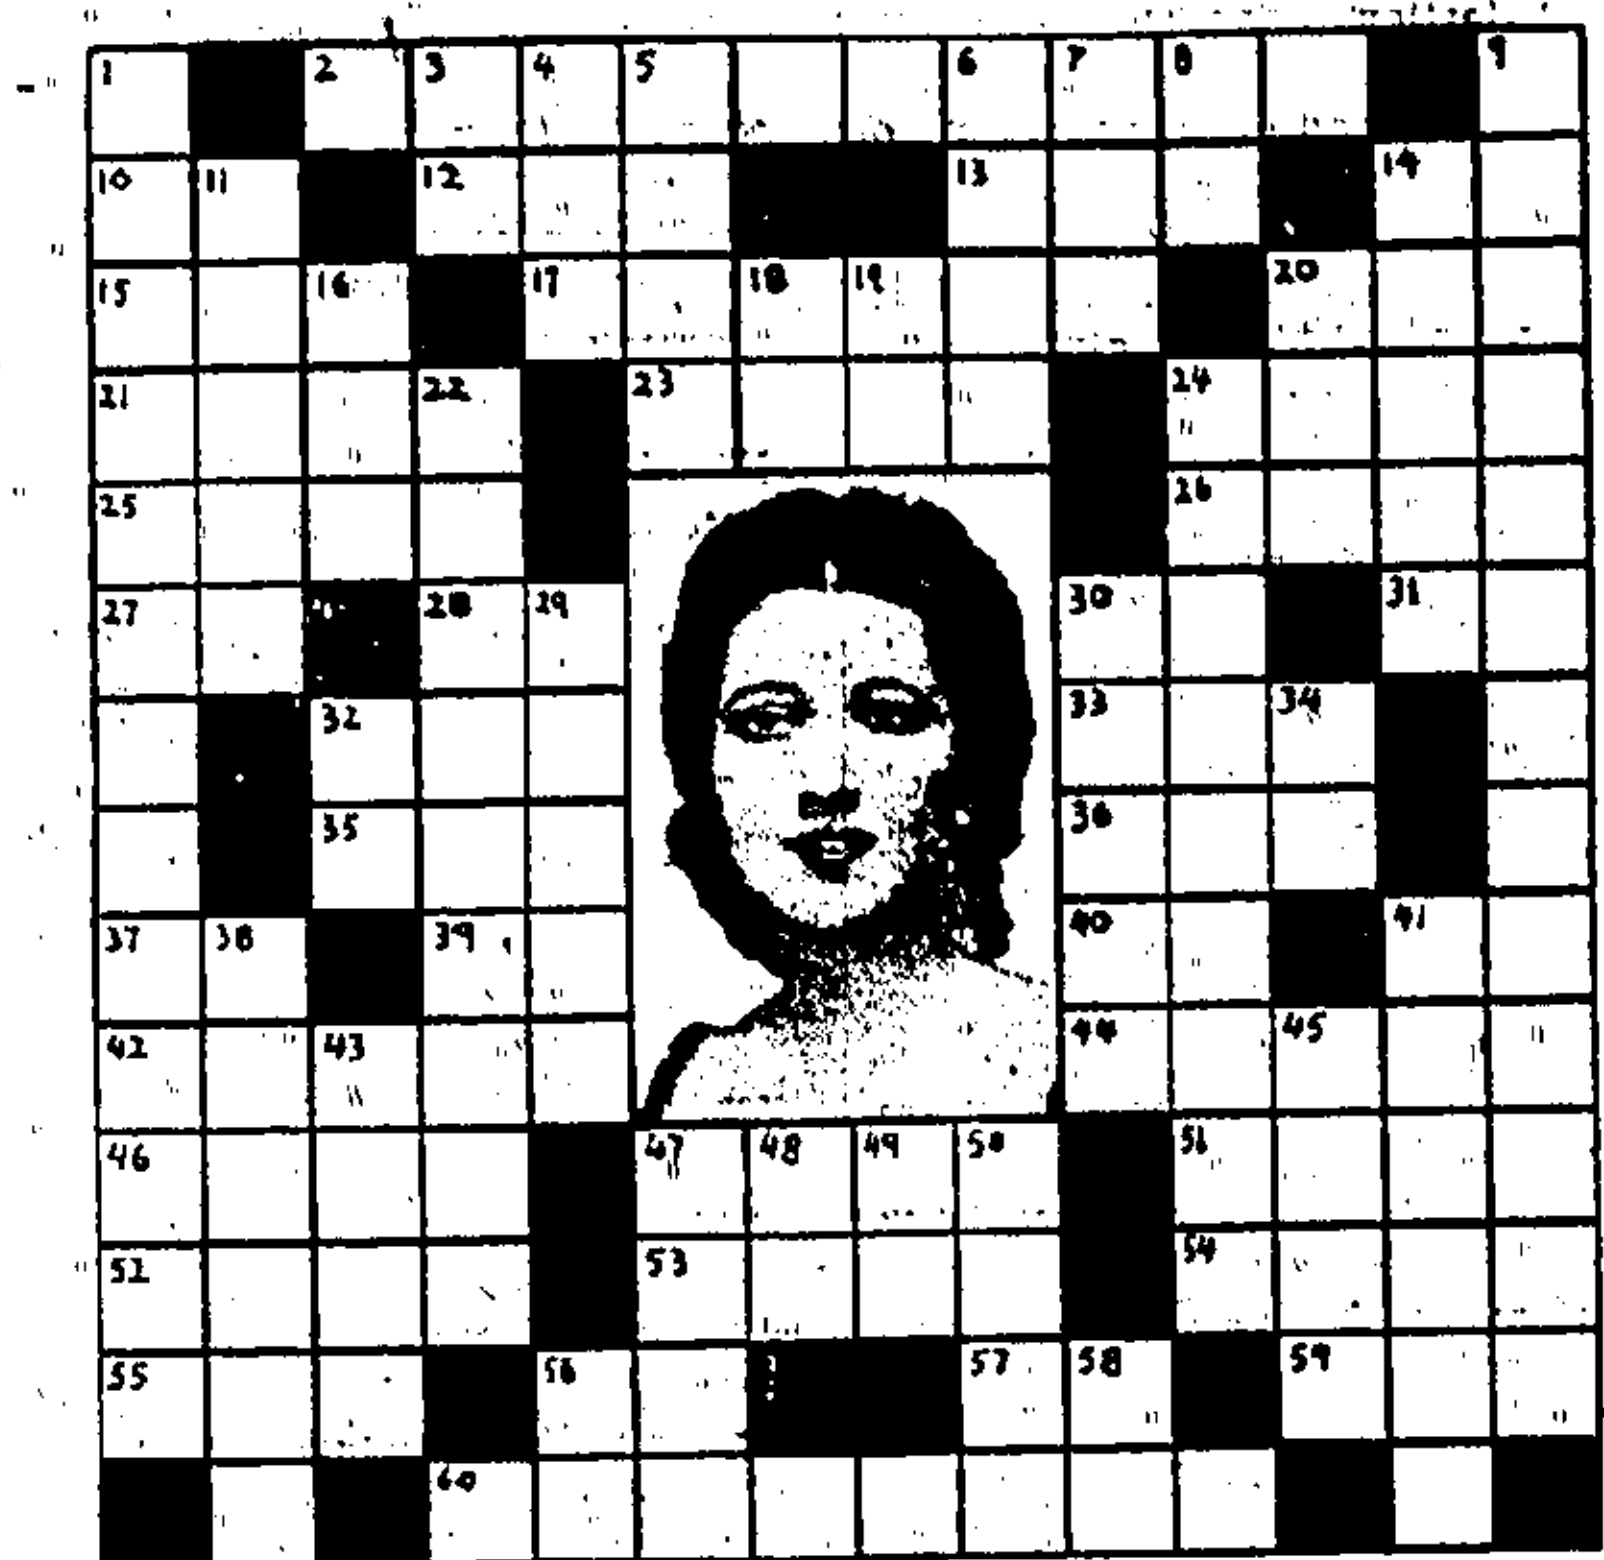

Marion Nixon has been married at Yuma, Arizona, to William Seiter, the film director.

Wallace Beery, whose M.G.M. contract lapses at the end of this year, is considering making a picture with London Films.

Betty Bronson is planning another "come-back."

BERT AND BOB

At Their Funniest

Considering the time propitious for a burlesque on the current trend of historical and costume pictures, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey will star in "Cockeyed Cavaliers" their latest funfilm coming to the King's Theatre tomorrow in which they satirize the Middle Ages.

Modern comedy, melody and pulchritude set against the medieval era provide the hilarity of "Cockeyed Cavaliers." The story is told in rhythmic dialogue where-in each sound, song, dance and word synchronizes with the action. All of the melodies and routines become part of the story.

The film revolves about the adventures of two highwaymen of yore portrayed by Wheeler and Woolsey. They are riding the roads of a regal stage-coach when they encounter Mary Ann disguised as a boy to evade a forced marriage to the Duke of Weskit. They take her under their wings, and evenually find themselves within the gates of the Duke's palace, where they give this big shot the works in their own rollicking fashion.

Two Song Hits

Here Bert and Mary Ann and Bob and Genevieve, the Duke's niece, engage in a rollicking romance which is interrupted by the noble's discovery of Mary Ann's identity. An insane hunt for a wild bear brings a delightful denouement to what is considered Wheeler and Woolsey's funniest picture.

A host of alluring blondes, red-heads and brunettes, the tuneful melodies "I Love to Dilly Dally" and "I Want Kissing" and the hilarious story by Edward Kaufman and Ben Holmes are important elements of "Cockeyed Cavaliers."

HAILED AT HOLLYWOOD
TRADE SHOW"Viva Villa!" Opening
To-day

VIVA VILLAI, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's eagerly awaited production with Wallace Beery in the starring role, was highly praised by the Motion Picture Herald (American Trade Magazine) after a trade show held in Hollywood. The review in its entirety follows:—

"Here's the material from which showmanship naturals are made. Pancho Villa, 20th Century Mexican Robin Hood, glamorous, glorious, terrifying. Boy and man, peon, avenger, bandit, soldier, general, president; the worshiped idol of his followers—hated scourge of his enemies. The picture is produced on epic scope, crammed with the colour, punch and thrill of the man and his career; a subject as fresh and exciting as it was in the days when Villa rode.

"It is based on a novel by Edgcomb Pinchon and O. P. Stude, and the screen play written by Ben Hecht, noted for his vigorous realism as in FRONT PAGE, and SCARFACE, Hecht has embellished historical fact with the appealing sweep of legend. For the screen has been evolved a romance of adventure, a saga of fervid patriotism, heartless cruelty, tender chivalry. The story of a man and his amazing raids, of a man who knew and married many women, but loved only one, of a man whose flaming spirit re-created a nation.

"Wallace Beery is Villa; the role fits him just as did that of Butch in THE BIG HOUSE and THE CHAMP. The cast is composed entirely of familiar screen names, listing Leo Carrillo, Fay Wray, Stuart Erwin, Donald Cook, George Stone, Joseph Schildkraut, Katherine DeMille (C.B.'s daughter, making her screen debut), Henry B. Walthall, Francis Bushman, Jr., and Henry Armetta in support. The picture was made almost in its entirety in the locales that Villa rode to fame. Its bigness is demonstrated by the marching thousands, barefoot, ragged revolutionists, men and women who followed their idol. There's a mighty thrill in every line of VIVA VILLAI!"

Preston Foster and Zita Johann have the leading roles in "The Man Who Dared," the new Fox production, the writing of which was inspired by incidents in the life of Anton Cermak.

PYJAMA STYLES

Claudette Colbert
Wardrobe

Claudette Colbert, the famous Paramount star, who plays her finest part as Cleopatra in Cecil B. DeMille's huge spectacle film—CLEOPATRA—has just bought a complete wardrobe of pyjamas—for spring, summer, autumn, winter!

These are in the very latest styles and, at the moment, are the envy of Hollywood.

To start with, Miss Colbert ordered a dozen pairs of light-weight corded silk pyjamas, extremely tailored, with V-neck blouse and short sleeves, and installed in contrasting colours just at the base of the neck.

Pale yellow, pale blue, and white are the colours she has chosen for these comfortable garments.

Heavy white satin was selected for lounging pyjamas, with full wide trousers and long, bell-shaped sleeves. Buttoning high at the neck, the coat is embellished with frogs of white silk which fasten to the waist. A flat, white belt that loops and ties at the side front, and fringed at the ends, is a feature.

One of the CLEOPATRA star's favourites is created in pale blue heavy satin, with a round, wide yoke of banded satin and chiffon. This trimming is repeated on the three-quarter length full sleeves. Tiny buttons covered in the blue satin extend from the high neck to the waist, and a flat belt, buttoning at the front, is used.

Another favourite is a white crepe suit, slightly Russian in trend. It has a very high neck and the full trousers and long sleeves are edged with silver which gives an entirely charming effect.

The introduction of silver and gold into current fashions, incidentally, is becoming a rigid rule with the foremost designers, and all of them are including these metallic notes wherever possible.

THE FUTURE OF SUNKIANG

May Become Suburb
Of Shanghai

Sungkiang, Ku, Sept. 27. Since the opening of the motor road from here to Shanghai, Sungkiang has been put on the map. It is now only a pleasant afternoon drive down here, and many people avail themselves of the opportunity on week-ends, writes a correspondent.

Now another and shorter road to Shanghai is proposed and will be a fact in the not distant future. It will pass Siking, Chipao and on by the Hungao Aerodrome into Shanghai. I understand that work has already begun on it. Sungkiang will soon be a suburb of Shanghai, and people will save the stiffness and expense of a big city by living here and driving to their business every morning.

No Reason To Complain

Though we hear pitiful tales of crop conditions in other places, Sungkiang will have no reason to complain if something unforeseen does not happen. It has weathered one of the driest summers ever known in these parts, and passed through a season of pouring rain and yet if something worse does not get them will produce a bumper rice crop. I have never seen the fields in this immediate section look more prosperous. The tides from the Whangpoo bring water in plenty, and also good drainage is furnished to carry away an over supply of rainfall. The people around here have never known what a famine is. Here really is the garden spot of China.

On the night before last there was quite an irony of circumstance in our city. Armed robbers entered the house of the chief official of the First Ward of our District and carried off between $300 and $400 worth of booty. It was not far from the police station, but somehow the robbers got off quite free. One might almost imagine that the robbers were trying to "poke fun at this official.

"VIVA VILLA!"

Fay Wray and Wally
Beery

"Working with Wallace Beery is like going to a circus. I enjoyed every minute of it!" Fay Wray, strangely tiny for a girl who has undergone so many horrific adventures for the screen, smiled reminiscently.

"He's like a big overgrown boy playing tricks on the others in the cast and making a joke out of everything. You have to work with him in an intense scene to realize that underneath the fun there's an earnestness that is almost fanatical."

Beery and Miss Wray are teamed for the first time in their respective careers in "Viva Villa!" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's spectacular story of the tempestuous life and loves of Pancho Villa, war lord of Mexico. The photoplay opens to-day at the Queen's Theatre.

Miss Wray, of course, is cast as the luckless heroine who defies Villa's determined amours—and pays for her defiance. It is one of the strongest roles she has portrayed on the screen. "But for a girl who has been chased by cannibals and giant apes and all sorts of monsters," she laughed, "Pancho Villa wasn't so bad, after all."

"Viva Villa!" is one of the most powerful stories that has reached the screen in many a day. Telling a fictional tale of the stormy life of the peon slave who rose to grandeur and liberated the poor, it gives Beery his greatest opportunity. He marches through the story, a conquering hero, humbled only when he falls in love.

With Beery and Miss Wray is a notable cast including Leo Carrillo, Donald Cook, Stuart Erwin, Katherine De Mille, David Durand, Frank Puglia, Francis X. Bushman, Jr. Adrian Rosley and Henry Armetta.

CIVIL AVIATION IN INDIA

Beacons for Night
Flying

The annual report on the progress of civil aviation in India published recently declares that the expansion movement is steadily gathering force and volume. During the year, Imperial Airways' extended their transcontinental service from Karachi to Rangoon and Singapore.

The existing air mail lines are the weekly services in each direction between Karachi and Victoria Point, Karachi and Madras and Calcutta and Rangoon and the daily services between Calcutta and Decca in Bengal.

The belated extension of the Karachi-Madras route to Colombo is still under discussion with the Ceylon Government, and three other services are projected to link Bombay with Calcutta, Calcutta with Madras and Karachi with Lahore.

Perhaps the outstanding development of the immediate future will be the provision for night flying over the whole distance from Karachi to Calcutta. There will be beacons at intervals of 100 miles throughout the route, and most of the landing grounds will have boundary lights and illuminated wind indicators. All these lights will be of the type that is automatically operated by daylight and darkness. That is to say, the mere approach of nightfall or the gloom caused by an exceptionally severe thunderstorm will turn them on and the coming of dawn will spontaneously switch them off again.

Floodlights As Well. The beacons and the aerodrome lights will be distinct and independent units, as it is the function of the former only to guide the pilot on his course. On a reasonably clear night he will always have one beacon, and often two, within his field of vision at any given moment, and possibly he will be informed of his position by an auxiliary signal lamp automatically flashing from the top of the beacon after the manner of coastal light-houses.

The main aerodromes, Karachi, Delhi, Cawnpore, Allahabad, Calcutta, Akyab, and Rangoon, will be fully equipped with floodlights in addition to the minor illuminations of the intermediate landing grounds.

If and when an agreement is reached for the operation of a Bombay-Calcutta service, it is intended that this route also should be beaconed and equipped for night landings, so that it may be covered by the air mail in each direction every night. Here new aerodromes, landing grounds, and wireless stations will be required also.

The Karachi-Lahore route requires new landing grounds, hangars, and wireless stations, and organization on the projected Calcutta-Madras route is to begin with the provision of landing grounds.

UNDERGRADUATE FINED

A. C. Nolasco da Silva, an undergraduate of the Hong Kong University, was fined $10 by Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday on a summons of causing an obstruction on a footpath in Wongmichong Road by parking his car, No. 948, on the east side of the road.

When the case first came up before His Worship a fortnight ago, defendant admitted that his car was there but denied that it caused an obstruction. He said there was still plenty of room for pedestrians to pass.

His Worship decided to visit the place and remanded the case for the purpose.

When the case came up yesterday morning, His Worship remarked: "Mr. da Silva, I have to thank you for having wasted more time of the Court than anybody has done for a long time."

His Worship added that he had been to see the spot and found it to be most palpably a pavement. Any car parked there, either sideways or fore and aft, was an obstruction.

Defendant: There's nothing I can say, then?
His Worship: I'm afraid not. I have found, against you and fine you $10. If you like, you can get a solicitor and appeal against my decision within seven days.

DOG STEALER FINED

Leung Ying, a 43-year old unemployed of 118, Yee Kuk Street was charged before Mr. Wynne-Jones at Kowloon Magistracy yesterday with (a) larceny of a dog's collar and licence badge, at Shamshuipo on October 7, (b) receiving stolen property, (c) possession of a stolen black chow dog, and (d) keeping a dog without a licence.

According to Detective-Sergeant Franklyn 10 dogs' tails, six collars, and seven muzzles were found in defendant's room. There was no doubt that the defendant was a professional dogstealer.

On the first charge defendant was sentenced to one month's hard labour, the second was withdrawn, on the third four months' hard labour, consecutively and on the fourth he was fined $5, in default, seven days' hard labour.

COURT OF CRIMINAL APPEAL

Further Submissions By Counsel

The Court of Criminal Appeal continued its sitting yesterday to hear the appeal against the sentence of death recently passed on Ng Loi Yuen.

Mr. R. C. H. Lim (Instructed by Mr. T. P. K. Kemble) concluded his arguments on behalf of the appellant. In the afternoon, Mr. J. A. Fraser for the Crown replied to the points raised by Counsel for the appellant.

Answer To Points Raised

Continuing to amplify points brought out at Monday's hearing Mr. Lim said he had looked up the authority quoted by their Lordships and was still of the opinion that the Trial Judge did not with sufficient clearness put the case for the defence before the jury. He would not have brought the point if the learned Judge had made no statement at all as to whether the defence put up was in contradiction to Eric Davies' evidence; or had said nothing about the two bruises on Mary Pine's neck and the importance of her identification at the Police Court.

If he had not referred to these points, then what was said by the Counsel for the defence would have remained in the minds of the jury.

Prejudice Unavoidable.

The defence maintained that the blow which killed the boy must have been caused by a fall into the nullah whilst throwing stones or playing, or else by being washed against the wall whilst in the nullah. This theory was equally consistent with the theory of the Crown that accused threw the boy in, and therefore there was no case to go before the jury.

In fact the jury had been asked to guess which theory to accept. He submitted that but for these misdirections the verdict would have been one of acquittal.

Going on to the law, Mr. Lim submitted that the learned Trial Judge was wrong in not withdrawing the case from the jury on the submissions of the Counsel for the defence that there was no case to go to them.

The Question of Motive

There was no direct evidence from Mrs. Fairburn or Eric Davies that they saw accused throw the boy into the nullah, and medical evidence agreed that the injury which caused his death could have been caused by a fall or a blow against the side of the wall.

As for motive, the letters which were found in accused's bag had been read together and construed as a motive but he would suggest that if the motive was that it was a brave thing to kill Europeans, that motive had been satisfied when he had thrown two children into the nullah. There was no evidence that he knew there would be children in the bridge when he went there.

The other motive suggested was drawn from the statement that accused said because "I have no money."

His submission was that there was no motive at all, and it was equally consistent with the Crown's theory to say that if accused threw two children in, the others fell in.

Attack Unexpected

Mr. Justice Hayden: It would be an extraordinary coincidence.

Mr. Lim: There are improbabilities on both sides. For instance, it is natural to expect that if accused had thrown one or two children in, the others would run away.

Mr. Justice Jacks: He might have done it quickly before they realised what was happening. It is not impossible.

Mr. Lim: It is a strange coincidence.

Mr. Justice Jacks: I don't think so. The attack was very unexpected.

Mr. Lim: Mrs. Fairburn described how when accused had thrown one boy into the nullah, the girl was looking into the stream. Was that natural?

Mr. Justice Jacks: She might have been petrified with fear. She was very young.

Mr. Lim: It shows there were improbabilities on both sides.

Mr. Justice Jacks: Those were for the jury to decide.

Mr. Lim: And where there were improbabilities there were doubts.

Mr. Justice Jacks: The jury were instructed to give accused the benefit of the doubt.

Mr. Lim: At any rate it entitles the defence to say that they put a theory equally consistent with the Crown's theory.

To Bridge The Gap Counsel, continuing, submitted that the Crown attempted to bridge the gap created by Mary Pine's evidence by formulating a theory. They had no right to attempt this.

Mr. Justice Jacks: He was entitled to do that and you put in your theories or suggestions on the other side.

Mr. Lim: The onus was not on the defence. If the Crown had not put in their theory, the defence would not.

Mr. Justice Hayden suggested that the bridge was built on circumstantial evidence.

Mr. Lim: When the theory of the Crown is equally consistent with that of the defence there is no circumstantial evidence and no case to go to the jury.

The Main Question

"My further ground of appeal is this: In view of the fact that Mary Pine's evidence was inconsistent with the Crown's evidence, the Crown's case was not made out."

SANITARY BOARD MEETING

Bye-Laws Amended

The question of Food Preserving Establishments was discussed at the fortnightly meeting of the Sanitary Board yesterday when Dr. J. M. Gray, Medical Officer of Health, moved the following resolution:

That the bye-laws governing Eating Houses, Bake-houses, Aerated Water Factories, Offensive Trades, and Food Preserving Establishments be amended by the addition of the following:—

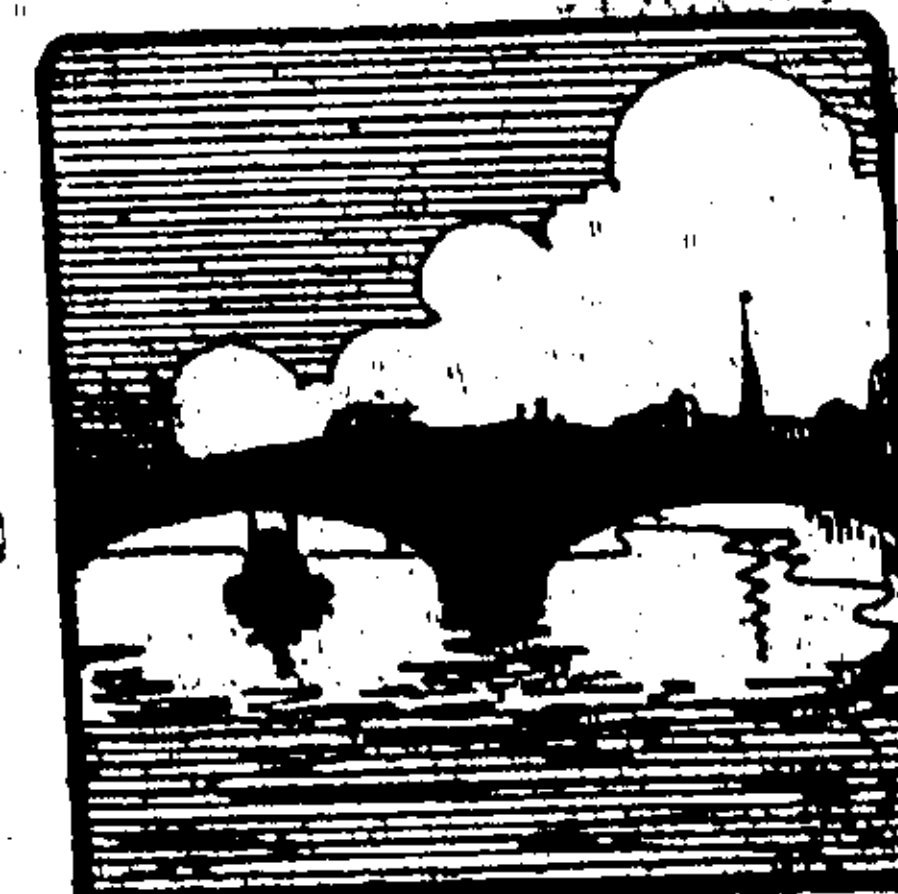

"Where any part of a floor to which the licence relates is used for sleeping purposes, such part shall be partitioned off from the remainder of the floor to the satisfaction of the Board; and no part of the trade shall be carried on and no storage of raw materials or finished products shall be permitted in the part so partitioned off for sleeping purposes."

In putting forward his motion, Dr. Gray said that food preserving establishments had, in his opinion, not been hygienically conducted in that a number of workmen had been allowed to sleep on the premises in a number of cases. In one case he came across in a file in his predecessor's time some folks were found sleeping on sacks of flour which were intended to be made into bread. He considered therefore that the domestic part of any licensed premises should be completely separated from the portion where the business was carried on by partitions and he therefore moved that the bye-laws governing such licences be amended.

The motion was carried.

Those present at the meeting were: Mr. R. A. D. Forrest (President), Hon. Mr. R. M. Henderson (vice-president), Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith (Secretary for Chinese Affairs), Dr. J. M. Gray (Medical Officer of Health), Mr. Wong Kwong Tin, Mr. M. K. Lo, Mr. L. C. F. Bellamy, Dr. Li Shu Fan, Dr. R. A. de Castro Basto, Mr. C. J. Roe (secretary), and Mr. Im Ping-tseung (assistant secretary).

Why Has Disarmament Failed

Interesting Talk At The Rotary Club

"Why Has Disarmament Failed?" was the subject of a very interesting address delivered by Mr. George She at the Rotary Club yesterday. In the course of his speech Mr. She said among other things that to expect the nations of the world to disarm, before first dealing with the problem of removing the demand for arms, was putting the cart before the horse. The address which we reproduce in full below, contains many points of interest.

Mr. M. K. Lo presided at the meeting and there were many guests present.

Ridding The World Of War

WHY HAS THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE FAILED?

Mr. She said:—

In the international sphere today there is, perhaps, no problem so baffling to statesmen as that of disarmament, or more correctly, the limitation of armaments. This harassing problem is not a creation of post-war diplomats. In one form or another it has appeared on the page of history for well over two thousand years. From Asoka the Monk Emperor of India to Woodrow Wilson the idealist President of the American people, the centuries have witnessed the valiant attempts of valiant personalities to change, not human nature, but human practice, and conduct in the relationship between one group of people and another.

The question of the limitation of armaments, even in its modern form, dates not from the Treaty of Versailles of 1919 but from the First Hague Conference of 1899. In that year Austria-Hungary decided to reorganize the army in preparation for a possible conflict in the Balkans. This decision naturally caused much consternation in St. Petersburg and would have immediately provoked Russia to a proportionate increase in her armaments but for the fact that the financial position of that Empire in 1899 made such an expensive retaliation out of question. The only other alternative in those days when every state was a law to itself was to endeavour, by diplomatic means, to dissuade the Emperor Francis Joseph from upsetting the military status quo of the two rivals in the Balkans. But such an alternative proved obnoxious to the proud spirit of the Romanoffs.

Not Yet Ripe

At about the same time, however, the Czar was placed in possession of certain literature discussed by the Inter-Parliamentary Union a few months before, dealing with the question of disarmament. Perhaps I may mention in passing that this Union, very early in its interesting career, set out to discuss problems which were not yet ripe for political discussion or action. Disarmament was certainly not ripe for discussion in the early months of the last year of the nineteenth century, but the Czar was interested in it just as his predecessor, Alexander, was interested in the Concert of Europe at the beginning of the same century. The advisers of Czar Nicholas II took full advantage of this psychological situation, and the result was that the First Hague Conference for the limitation of armaments was convened. This was calculated by the Czar's ministers to be effective in securing the postponement of the reorganization of the Austro-Hungarian army.

World Politics

But this Conference, though it failed to secure the main object of disarmament either generally among the Powers or particularly in the case of Austria-Hungary, at once brought the question of modern disarmament into the stream of world politics. Disarmament ceased to be a question only discussed by Quakers and pacifists in their chapels or churches. Even the stern and unbending realpolitik had to take it seriously or at least pay lip service to it. It is necessary to remind the post-war generation of this event, because it is little known and seldom referred to by our historians, with the result that the causes of the failure of the First and Second Hague Conferences have not been widely studied.

Earlier Lessons

If the statesmen at Versailles in 1919 and at Geneva during the subsequent years took the lesson of the two Hague Conferences to heart the cause of "peace on earth and good-will among men" might have fairer chances of success. Had they studied the implications of disarmament with historical insight they would have found that disarmament and the renunciation of war as an instrument of policy moved in quite different places. Disarmament or the limitation of arms implies the legalization and not the outlawry of war. To limit armaments is practically to permit its use as an instrument of policy except that such use should be within certain defined limits. It seems to argue thus "Let all the states henceforth agree to fight with shorter knives and blunter weapons, with fewer aeroplanes and smaller battleships, and warfare will be less barbaric and more fair." It is the reasoning of a Boxing Association. Such reasoning, ignores the fact of experience. The few reasonable conventions agreed to at the Hague Conferences were all broken in the first few months of the Great War. In fact these Conferences were practically forgotten by the statesmen of Europe in July 1919 when the peace of the world was at stake.

Not True Pacifism

Secondly such reasoning is strictly speaking contrary to the spirit of true pacifism. If it is immoral to kill at all, it is just as immoral to kill with a blunt as with a sharp weapon, with a small as with a large one. It is arbitrary and anti-social killing that is objectionable and not the type of weapon by which this act is facilitated. True, and here we must not misinterpret the real object of disarmament, to the average pacifist, disarmament means gradual and ultimately complete disarmament. But this only pushes the argument further back and brings me to my third point which is this. It is impossible to limit armaments or even by a gradual process eventually to eliminate the use of arms in international relations, simply because, under modern conditions, "Everything is Part of Armaments." The research professor in his study is as valuable a part of modern armaments as the most deadly of sharpshooters; the dye industry is as vital an element in war equipment as the swiftest submarines. Is the professor or the dye industry to be suppressed? If so, how? Moreover, where is the limit to be set? The great problem of the limitation of armaments is the question of the limitation of such limitation.

A Few Questions

If we merely limit the use of heavy artillery, such limitation is by no means complete, to ally fear of war, nor is it likely to be sufficiently effective as to discourage international warfare. In order to be effective, limitation must, in fact, extend to the whole of life—to the motor car, the press, the research laboratory, the radio, the cinema, the doctor, the nurse, and even the bloodhound! In modern warfare the civilian at the base is as intimately a part of the national army as the most indispensable soldier in "no man's land." For to-day when a nation foolishly launches into a war, the whole of its people takes part as belligerents in one way or another. The day of the professional and hired soldiery has gone, ever since Napoleon aroused and brought the national instincts of his compatriots into play. Are we then to suppress the civilian as well as the soldier? Do we intend to sacrifice life for the sake of living? The impossibility of effective limitation of armaments must now appear obvious to you.

Another Point

But if you are not yet convinced, I shall invite you to consider a fourth point and it is this. Even if it were possible to limit armaments or to effect limitation of the more deadly weapons such as heavy artillery, submarines, and aeroplanes, yes, even chemicals, yet it must not be forgotten that "limitation, like necessity," is the mother of invention." The whole history of imposed limitations goes to show this. After his defeat of Prussia in 1807 Napoleon resorted to the old practice of mutilation. True, he did not cut off the fingers of the Prussians as the Percys and Douglases did in their frequent border feuds in order to render their rivals incapable of bearing arms. The world had then outlived that form of disarmament. But Napoleon laid down numerical limits to the Prussian army and war materials. The ingenuity of the Prussians then began to play around these very limitations. They kept the number of soldiers in active service down to the required maximum but instead of having a professional army, the Prussians passed the whole of its manhood through the Army on short term service so that in the short space of six years, in 1813, Prussia again became a first class military power and contributed materially to Napoleon's defeat at Waterloo.

"Pocket Battleships"

Again, under the Treaty of Versailles, of 1919, the Germans have been limited to battleships of 10,000 tons and the world to-day is presented with the "pocket battleship" which is claimed to be far more destructive than dreadnoughts several times its size. What the Germans lack in quantity, they can always make up for in quality and now the world is faced with the problem of having to wait perhaps for another world war in order to impose a further limitation on this new "Frankenstein" of man's creativeness, with the assurance that there is no limit to such creative perversity. Prohibit the use of military aeroplanes to the defeated Germans and at once this limitation forced their attention on civil aviation until to-day the one differs little from the other. The prohibitive and limitative clauses of the Treaty of Versailles have not changed the hearts of the Germans. They have only made them more bitter and more inventive. The greatest danger to any society is to pass a law which can be broken with impunity or evaded in a manner so as to engender a spirit of disrespect for law and order. It is from this angle that we can see some connection between the failure of the Disarmament Conference and the present unrest in the world.

Forms of Limitations

There are several ways of limiting armaments each one as well-known as the other and each one as ineffective as the other. The limitation may be quantitative, namely it may deal with the number of men or of weapons which a state is permitted to have. The limitation may be qualitative, namely it may extend to the type of military organization or training which is allowed to a state's army. Finally the limitation may be budgetary and here the budget allotted to the fighting forces may be subject to limitation.

Experience if not logic, history if not reason, should have shown to the post-war generation that it simply could not expect to secure world peace by setting out rules as to how the world might be able to continue the antiquated practice of warfare in these modern scientific days. These rules, conventions and "plans" of disarmament may be very impressive but they possess within themselves the germs of their own destruction. They are really efforts directed towards organizing the world for war instead of for peace and it is this inherent defect which robs disarmament of its virtue. In fact, strictly speaking, the problem of disarmament is irrelevant to the fundamental requirement of mankind for a Collective System organized to quell any breach or threatened breach of its peace. It is not so much the weapon used as the act of criminality that real emphasis should be made, though, of course, one must not completely ignore the fact that a country with a larger supply of arms is often more likely to be tempted to act in an aggressive manner. I hope fervently that these observations of mine will not in any way dampen the zeal of any of my hearers in working for the establishment of a war-purged world.

NO WATER FOR ROTARIANS

Wine Promised By Mr. Montargis

It was announced at the Rotary Club yesterday that Mr. M. J. B. Montargis will be the speaker next Tuesday and that the subject will be "French Wine." The Chairman, Mr. M. K. Lo announced that the speaker had arranged, from his very fine cellars, to give members a plentiful supply at the next meeting, so that they could sip any particular wine which might be mentioned during the speech.

Mr. Montargis' address will be entitled "Purple and Gold—The Nectar of the Gods."

tention from the question of disarmament to that of the Kellogg Pact, which, to my mind, represents the true line of advance towards a Collective World Order. Time does not permit me to discuss this aspect of the problem of war and peace. I only wish in this short discussion to say that to concentrate on disarmament before the question of the outlawry of war has been settled, is to put the cart before the horse. Disarmament has its right place in international relations, but in politics as in life generally, it is necessary to put first things first. The champions of disarmament (and let us show them due respect) unwittingly look at the problem of peace as it were, from the side of supply and not of demand—of the supply of arms and not of the demand of the world for arms. They try to stop the supply of arms before they have curtailed or destroyed the demand for them. Does it not seem clear that if the demand for arms were destroyed or diminished, the supply of arms would automatically cease or greatly diminished, while the reverse order of reasoning would not work out in the same way? If the supply of arms ceased automatically with the cessation of the demand for arms, then is it not reasonable to suggest that complete disarmament can be attained without the necessity of having to draft complicated and controversial conventions and plans?

Just a few words more about the effects of the failure of the Disarmament Conference and I shall close. There, as I think, two main effects which we need notice at present:—

Fear Of War Increased

Firstly, the break down of the disarmament Conference has greatly increased the international fear of war. The reason is chiefly psychological and is founded on the principle that nothing succeeds like success and nothing fails like failure. Many keen supporters of disarmament now feel that the failure to arrive at an agreed arms convention will soon plunge the world into another ugly war. But such an "all or nothing" view of international relations is rather an overstatement of the case. I believe the effect of the failure to achieve disarmament is instructive rather than destructive. The world is being taught by common suffering the lesson of the Hague Conferences. The second effect then is likely to be a blessing in disguise. It may yet succeed in opening the eyes of the blind and eliminate any possibility of paying easy lip service to peace abroad whilst encouraging armaments at home. Better still, it may yet force the peace lovers of the world to re-think the whole problem of war and peace by putting first things first.

The King's Peace

Perhaps we may even be encouraged to take a lesson from English history and see how the King's Peace was introduced to stamp out baronial wars. Perhaps we shall, then, see that disarmament is relatively less important than the creation of a Collective System based on the Kellogg Pact which is itself based on the idea of the King's Peace—a Collective System in which any constituent member, of it, taking the law into its own hands and arbitrarily relying on the sword of settle its own differences, will have the whole force of that system against it until it is forced to solve its disputes by

THE DOUBLE TENTH

Local Celebrations

China's National Day or the Double Tenth Festival, marking the 23rd anniversary of the Chinese Republic, will again be celebrated with great enthusiasm today, not only in the Colony, but also in every part of China.

To-day is being observed as a general holiday, and the Chinese National flags are in evidence everywhere. The offices and business firms in the city as well as the outlying districts are closed, and all schools and colleges have given a whole day's holiday to their pupils, many of whom will undoubtedly take advantage of this occasion to hold a whole day picnic and hiking parties to places of interest in the Colony.

At noon to-day, a tea party reception will be given at the Headquarters of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce for members and their friends, and it is believed that there will be a number of musical concerts and dancing parties held to-night at the different social centres and schools and colleges.

It is also reported that a swimming gala will be held to-night at the Chung Sing Benevolent Society's bathing pavilion at West Point.

In Canton

In Canton the anniversary will be observed as the biggest event in the history of the Kuomintang regime, and the whole city will be gaily decorated with National flags, banners, floral designs and paper lanterns, etc.

The Canton Air Force will give a big aerial demonstration between 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at the Tin Ho Aerodrome, when all available planes will take part.

At the Yin Tong Parade Ground, there will be a grand parade of troops, and General Chan Chai Tong, Commander-in-chief of the First Division Army, will take the salute. Besides the ordinary troops, the military and naval cadets will also participate.

Speeches will be delivered by the high officials of the Canton Government, the publicity workers of the Kwangtung Province, and the representatives of the various organizations.

Stage performances and other amusements will be given at Central Park, the Bund, and the Hot Tung Park in Honam Island.

In the morning the statue of the late Dr. Wu Ting Fang at Yuet Shau Hill will be unveiled in a ceremony to be attended by all the high officials, and an exhibition of revolutionary literature and relics will also be shown at the Provincial Mass Education Institute.

AT THE MARINE COURT

Kwok Fung aged 60 years, master of Boat No. 982V and two others, appeared before the Hon. Comdr. G. F. Hole at the Marine Court yesterday morning, charged with unlawfully anchoring their boats at the entrance of the Southern Fairway near the Ping On Wharf, in such a position as to cause obstruction to the free access of the other vessels, last Monday morning.

All the defendants admitted their offences, and were each fined $10 or one week's hard labour in default.

peaceful means or not at all. Such a system naturally has its own defects. I have not the time to show that these are not inherent or unsurmountable defects. I only need say, here, that since the last postponement of the Disarmament Conference, the leading statesmen of the world are beginning to realize that the only path to peace lies in the direction which has just been indicated. Thus though I began with rather harsh criticism I wish to end on a hopeful note. At no time since 1918 when the war-worn world sighed in unison "never again," at no time, gentlemen, is there such widespread desire among the peoples of the world for peace. Let us therefore take heart and try again (Applause).

Vote of Thanks

At the conclusion of Mr. She's address Professor Robertson proposed a vote of thanks to the speaker in the course of which he described the speech as "concise yet comprehensive." His own view of the Disarmament conference was that the nations were trying to prevent a race for armaments, as was the case before the European War.

On behalf of members of the Club he thanked Mr. She for his very entertaining address.

GUERRILLA WARFARE IN SPAIN

Lisbon Takes Precautions: Officials Arrested

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press").
(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1894.
Received, October 9, 4.30 p.m.)

Madrid, October 9. Firing and street fighting continued in the capital throughout last night, thus refuting the optimism shown in official circles. It is now stated on good authority that the Government is even anticipating further aggravating situations and are taking extensive precautionary measures. It is expected, for instance, that the strike leaders will call out all railwaymen and other railway employees. The Government is trying to forestall this by calling all reservists among the railroadmen into service. In case of emergency, these will be employed to maintain railway service, at least on a limited scale.

Another appeal was broadcast by the Government on Monday evening in which it was emphasized once more that the Government will not hesitate to make use of every means at its disposal in order to suppress disorders.

REBELS SURRENDER

Five hundred rebels who had entrenched themselves in a mountain village near Gijón surrendered last night to Government forces, according to official reports. It is rumoured that the former Socialist finance minister, Prieto, who is said to have been involved in the frustrated Catalan rising, has been arrested. The ex-Premier Asana appears to have made good his escape, it being now reliably reported that he, together with two members of the Catalan Generalitat, and another Left Wing politician have succeeded in crossing the frontier into France.

The Cabinet will present itself on Tuesday afternoon to Cortes, who from now will hold regular sessions despite the fact that all groups of Radicals, have decided not to attend the sittings as a protest against Government. In a statement to pressmen Premier Lleroux denied that any death sentence has been pronounced under Articles of War by the court martial now sitting.

LORRY DYNAMITED

Madrid, October 8. Fifty two soldiers were killed when a lorry packed with shock troops was dynamited to-day by rebels in Asturias.

The situation in the capital at midnight was quieter and more hopeful. The Socialists now appear to realise that they are fighting a losing battle.

Railway communication has been re-established throughout Spain, with the exception of the Asturias district.

After a lengthy sitting the Cabinet announced that the court-martial will be convened to-day. Most of the trials will be held under the Barcelona law and will be carried out however painful they may be.

The Home Secretary announced in a statement that the revolution had completely failed.

Thanks to the fine citizenship of the people of Madrid and the bravery of the garrison at Oviedo, the Socialist plan to secure control of Madrid and Asturias, was not achieved.

Only a few isolated groups of rebels outside Oviedo continue to cause trouble.

BARCELONA RELIEF

Barcelona, October 8. The arrival of the Foreign Legionaries from Spanish North Africa was to-day hailed as a rescue after three days of chaos.

Many citizens broke the curfew order, rushing into the streets to welcome the troops with cries of "Vive España."

Though isolated fighting continues, the military control of the situation. Two battalions of the Foreign Legion have been rushed to the town of Sabadell, where the revolutionaries are still firmly entrenched.

GUERRILLA TACTICS

Madrid, Oct. 9. Guerrilla tactics are continuing in Madrid and Barcelona, but there has been no serious fighting throughout the night.

Postal and railway services are functioning normally.

LISBON PRECAUTIONS

Lisbon, Oct. 9.

The Government here is taking every precaution to avoid an outbreak. The Postmaster-General, Bagalar and Director of Prisons, Oliveira have been arrested. Both are prominent fascists and personal friends of the Prime Minister.

The authorities deny that the measures taken have been actuated by events in Spain.

NORMAL LIFE RESUMED

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Madrid, Oct. 8.

The Spanish Government issued an official statement on Monday night that the insurrection has been overthrown and the authorities are complete masters of the situation. The capital presents an almost normal appearance, most traces of the recent upheaval having been eliminated. Traffic is again usual and most cafes have reopened. Factories and workshops are again running although numerous gaps among the workers are noticeable.

The new Government intends to face the Cortes on Tuesday and declares itself confident of victory. As they appear to be the protectors of the unity of Spain, they are enjoying the warmest support from large sections of the general public. During the last few days, fear had been widespread among the patriotic circles that Spanish unity would end in disruption, hence the gratitude felt for Lerroux for his energetic repression of the Catalonian movement.

Reports from Asturias and Galicia state that the situation there is unchanged. The rebellion could not yet be crushed. In Ferrol and Coruña, serious clashes occurred at night on Sunday and Monday in Catalonia, particularly in Barcelona where work has resumed. The pioneers are working desperately to restore telephone and telegraphic communications with Asturias.

TROUBLE IN SOUTH

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Madrid, October 8.

The situation suddenly took a turn for the worse on Monday evening. From the South, which hitherto had remained passive, news was received in Madrid that Socialist-Monarchist Trade Unions had proclaimed a general strike.

Bloodshed is reported from Seville and the neighbourhood. In the town of Seville, workers deserted their posts at lunch time, and patrols are now marching through the streets. Four persons were killed and many injured in the mining town of Nerva when miners, civilian guards and the strikers exchanged shots. Extremists in the various villages not only tried to seize the public buildings but also the churches, and a church was set on fire in the small town of Alusia and burnt to the ground.

In Malaga a general strike has also been proclaimed and in the collisions that followed three persons were killed. The most recent development is considered to be serious because workers in the South of Spain are excellently organized and are extremely embittered against the possessing classes which is prominently represented in the new Lerroux Cabinet.

FAST RACE PREDICTED

With Soldier of Britain and Electric Star clashing in the Hunan Handicap, and with half a dozen of the best grims of this season being let in at moderate weights, there should be a very fast race over this mile. My choice is on Soldier of Britain, but I confidently expect Electric Star to run him very close. Hydroplane and Gladiator are of about equal strength and I should not be surprised to find one or the other run into a place. Hydroplane's claims are slightly stronger.

AUSTRALIANS

With last Saturday's winner, Australian Boy, barred from today's Australian race, over a mile and a quarter, and with The Goose lame, this race should be a bitter for St. Joan. The Griffe is very fit and with the light weight that he is carrying, should not be far from a place, while Empire Day is also a good bet. Rossy Morn and Friday are good for those desiring a long shot.

Only subscription grims which have won $1,500 or over, can enter for the last race of the day. There are seven entries and any one of them might win. The chances of Cavalade appear bright, but it must be remembered the pony is carrying a big weight. Copper Idol has not been prominent this half and might Close finishes featured the last swimming gala of the European Y.M.C.A. Swimming Section's summer programme, which was held last night in their pool and thoroughly enjoyed by all who participated.

Mrs. A. C. Schreuder swam a brilliant race in the Ladies 50 Yards Aggregate, starting from scratch and just beating Miss W. George who went 12 seconds before her, by a touch.

In the Men's 100 Yards Breast Stroke Championship, W. Schreuder gave the spectators a genuine thrill when he spurted magnificently in the last lap to lose to R. B. Wood by a fraction of a second in one of the closest races witnessed this season.

The Diving Championship only drew two entries from the Men's Section and one from the Ladies. Incidentally Miss Joan Wilson dived very well and completely outshone her male competitors. E. F. Selk was the winner in the Men's Section by a comfortable margin.

THE CITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Entire Crew Rescued

The entire crew of the City of Cambridge which is still hard aground on the Pratas, have been rescued by H.M.S. Suffolk.

The rescue was carried out under extremely dangerous conditions as the life-boats of the Suffolk had to row approximately ten miles through dangerous water and frequently the crews were forced to drag their boats over the shallows. Owing to the heavy swell on the shore side, they had to approach the wreck from inside the lagoon and took off the officers and men but fortunately without any untoward incident.

It was reported yesterday morning that the engine room of the stranded ship was leaking owing to the heavy bumping of the ship. Salvage of the ship and cargo would be impossible even in calm weather, the report added.

According to "British Wireless" advices from London H.M.S. Suffolk rescued six officers, three apprentices and 55 Lascars members of the crew of the City of Cambridge, the 7,058 tons cargo steamer. The Suffolk, which was despatched on Saturday with all speed to the scene of the wreck, made several unsuccessful attempts on Sunday to reach the vessel which was swept by mountainous seas and the cruiser stood by throughout the night.

Attempts were renewed at day-break and under perilous conditions rescues were effected.

The Captain and five officers and 15 Lascars still remain on the City of Cambridge which is reported to be on an even keel, but with her bow completely out of water, while at her stern the loss of her propeller is visible.

Salvage seems improbable but there is every prospect of the remaining members of her crew being rescued.

H.M.S. Suffolk is due here this morning. She has on board the whole of the crew from the ill-fated vessel.

The City of Cambridge has now been abandoned.

Ten squads of the Ten-Men League will be "mobilized" tomorrow to acquaint the public with the necessity of aerial defence. Lectures will be delivered to the people advising them to contribute money to buy more aeroplanes, anti-aircraft guns and other weapons.

These alarm-spreading speakers will conduct their campaign for seven days and will visit all parts of the city. Propaganda leaflets have been prepared for the benefit of merchants, who are to be impressed with the danger of aerial bombardments.

Similar campaign is going on in the richer counties. The Ten-Men League has sent agents there to tell the people the meaning of aerial warfare and defensive measures for the protection of life and property.

CRIMINAL

tioned in the Crown's opening and that she was unable to give evidence, would it not have been a fair thing to appeal? The Chief Justice discharged the jury and ordered a new trial? The jury, having heard what Mary Pine would say, evidence which implicates appellant with the crime, must have been prejudiced against appellant. Her evidence was really the link between the crime and accused. A judge has the power of discretion in ordering a new trial and in this case his discretion should have been to discharge the jury and order a new trial.

"The whole question, particularly in reference to this ground, is not whether appellant is guilty or not guilty. The main question is whether he had a fair trial."

"My last ground is that the evidence of Mrs. Fairburn in the absence of the Crown witness, Mary Pine, was wrongfully admitted and put to the jury. No objection could be taken at the trial because the defence was carried out on the assumption that Mary Pine was going to be called to give evidence. In the absence of Mary Pine's evidence Mrs. Fairburn's evidence was not admissible until the Crown had put before the jury a "prima facie" case. The evidence of Mrs. Fairburn with regard to the throwing of the two children could be classified as falling under the heading "similar act." Evidence of "similar act" cannot be given in any trial unless the Crown has first of all made out a "prima facie" case against appellant.

Mr. Lim quoted authorities in support of this ground, and concluded his case.

Mr. Fraser's Speech

Mr. Fraser opening his address apologised for having so frequently interrupted his friend, Counsel for the Appellant. He said that it was merely because so many things were attributed to his speech, which had no place there.

Continuing, Mr. Fraser said that he freely admitted that there were two statements which he made in the opening which were not corroborated by the evidence. The points were (1) that the man threw Mary Pine in and (2) that the man throw the others in. There was no direct evidence on these points. Dealing with the first point raised by Mr. Lim to the effect that the case should have been withdrawn from the jury, and that the verdict was against the weight of evidence, Mr. Fraser submitted authorities to show that it was not sufficient to argue that the evidence only amounted to a weak case. He also quoted authorities to show that the Court of Criminal Appeal had laid down that they would not re-try any case on an issue of facts.

The appellant, said Mr. Fraser, had a motive for suicide as adduced from the letters produced by the Crown. The Court was reminded that of all the adults who went into the nullah, the appellant was the only one who made no attempt to get out. There was also evidence that he was hiding.

Mr. Lim protested that there was no evidence that the appellant was hiding, though he was standing right up against the wall. With regard to the theory of the defence at the time of the trial, Mr. Fraser said that the difficulty of getting down the steps into the nullah, the co-incidence of three children being washed away at the same time that two others were thrown in, and the evidence of the letters, all pointed to the one irresistible conclusion that the accused committed murder.

In connection with the submission that the case should not have gone to the jury, Mr. Fraser said that the Court had no power to interfere with the discretion of the Trial Judge. He cited authorities to support his submission.

Counsel further submitted that the defence, had they so wished, could have applied for a postponement of the case in order to cross-examine any witness who might have been absent through indisposition.

The hearing will be continued on Thursday.

SHOOTING IN WANCHAI

Japanese Committed To The Sessions

Ikuro Nomura, a Japanese, was committed to stand his trial at the next Criminal Sessions by Mr. Hamilton at Central Magistracy yesterday on two charges of (a) having discharged a shot from a shot-gun into No. 87, Jaffee Road, top floor intending to maim, disfigure or disable the following persons: Mr. Hotta, Mrs. Hotta, Tomoyo Matsushita, Mrs. Nomura and three children, and (b) with being in possession of one shot gun and 15 cartridges without a licence from the Hon. Inspector General of Police.

Mr. T. Murphy, Assistant Director of Criminal Investigation, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Leo D'Almada e Castro, Jr., instructed by Mr. M. A. da Silva, was for the defence.

Mr. Hotta the occupier of the house in question, stated that on the night of the shooting, September 12, he returned home at 11 p.m. At 1.15 a.m. he heard the sound of a shot. The lights were on at the time and there were four women and three children in the house.

At this stage some misunderstanding arose in regard to the interpretation of witness's statement, as a result of which his Worship remarked "I propose to inform the learned Registrar that the interpreter in this case is entirely unreliable."

Gun In A Lorry

Continuing his evidence, Mr. Hotta said that he had just finished his bath and was coming out of the kitchen when he heard the shot. He saw smoke but saw nothing withdrawn from the door. Cross-examined by Mr. D'Almada, witness said that he had known the defendant for 16 years and had been out shooting with him but he could not say whether defendant fired from the left or right shoulder.

Wong Chuen, District watchman No. 30, who arrested the defendant, said that on the night of the incident he was at Gloucester Road near Fezwick Street when he heard sounds of whistle from the direction of Jaffee Road. He then saw defendant running out of Jaffee Road carrying what appeared to him to be a gun on his back. He ran from east to west on open ground as far as the side of the Seamen's Institute where he disappeared. Witness followed him by way of Gloucester Road. Just as he was turning into Arsenal Street he saw defendant again but this time he had an overcoat on but no gun. Witness ran forward and arrested him. On his person was found a bandolier containing cartridges.

Detective-Sergeant Lo Kwong deposed of having found the gun in a military lorry on a vacant ground near the Seamen's Institute. It was concealed at the back of the lorry on the left side, tucked between some iron bars over the wheel.

Sub-Inspector A. V. Baker, in charge of the licensing arms department, testified that defendant had neither an arms nor a game licence in September this year.

Mrs. H. Nome deposed of having taken defendant's statements in reply to the two charges. With regard to the first charge, the defendant said: "I didn't know what I had done. I had no intention to do any harm to anybody in the above address."

In reply to the second charge, defendant said: "I admit I had. I did not know why I brought it over."

Case For A Jury

This completed the case for the Crown, and Mr. D'Almada then addressed his Worship. He submitted that the prosecution had not produced sufficient evidence to prove that the defendant had any intention of doing the occupants of the house any harm. Evidence given by the prosecution, he said, had shown that the defendant could have aimed at his sister-in-law or even his wife but instead he shot at a wall at a spot which was 1 foot 8 inches above the bed on which the women were lying.

He submitted that (1) the shooting was an accident; (2) that the evidence produced by the prosecution showed that the defendant was in such a condition that he could not form any specific intention and (3) that there was no evidence that the defendant had the intention of maiming, or disabling the occupants of the house.

Mr. D'Almada quoted at length from the authorities to support his arguments.

His Worship, however, decided to commit the defendant saying that it was not his duty to judge the case, but to see if there was any reasonable evidence for the case to go before the jury.

"If I find that there is sufficient evidence," said his Worship, "on which it is possible that the jury might convict then my duty is to commit. I am not judging this case. On the other hand if I start to decide whether I think the jury will or will not convict, it seems to me that I must be wrong because I am allocating to myself the duties which should fall on the judge and jury."

NEW YORK STOCK AND COMMODITY QUOTATIONS

AMERICAN ORIENTAL FINANCE CORPORATION AND S. E. LEVY & CO.

New York, Oct. 8.

The American Oriental Finance Corporation's report through their New York agents, Messrs. E. A. Pierce & Co., states:

Stocks:—The market was uneventful, with no particular news. The underlying sentiment seems to be a trifle better.

Wheat:—There was no news to account for the late selling. Argentine has reported some frost. The Trade anticipates a continuance of decreasing visible supplies for some time.

Cotton:—The Government Bureau report was slightly less than general expectations, but buying failed to develop when realizing and hedging was encountered on the advance. The market needs some new incentive to encourage demand.

Rubber:—Liquidation by dealers, plus a drop in prices defeated the market after a good start. Dealers were buyers at the close.

Flash:—Fischer's Weekly Commodity Index: 79.7, against 80.1 last week.

New York, Oct. 8.

Messrs. S. E. Levy & Company's report, through their New York agents, Messrs. White, Weld & Co., states:

HAUPTMANN INDICTED

Lindbergh Baby Murder

Flemington, October 8.

Richard Hauptmann was today indicted on a charge of murder of the Lindbergh baby by a Grand Jury consisting of 20 men and three women, mostly parents, who were charged by the Judge to indict Hauptmann on a murder charge if the State presented sufficient evidence that the child met its death accidentally, or intentionally, at the hands of Hauptmann.

The Judge said that the Jury had been called for the purpose of presenting evidence which the State thought tended to show that Hauptmann had murdered the Lindbergh baby on March 1, 1932. The evidence, he said, would show that the child had been killed as the result of a blow inflicted by the accused.

The indictment declared that Hauptmann, "On or about March 1, 1932, with force and arms, did wilfully, feloniously and with malicious aforethought, kill and murder Charles Lindbergh Junior."

The hearing of witnesses and the deliberations of the jury occupied 4 hours and 42 minutes.

VOICE RECOGNISED

Flemington, N.J., Oct. 9.

Following Hauptmann's indictment on the charge of murder, the Police Chief revealed important fresh evidence.

He declares that Col. Lindbergh positively identified Hauptmann's voice as that heard shouting in the darkness in the Bronx cemetery on the night when ransom was paid.

Another witness, picked out Hauptmann from an identification parade as the man he twice saw emerge from the bushes on the Lindbergh estate prior to the kidnapping.

OBITUARY

Mr. A. D. Brent

News has been received in Shanghai of the death in England of Mr. A. D. Brent, formerly of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, who will be remembered by the older residents of Shanghai. Mr. Brent, after some years' service in China was transferred in 1910 to the bank's branch at Hamburg, where he remained until his retirement some two or three years ago.

The deceased gentleman was well known in Shanghai for his outstanding dramatic ability, for not only was he a remarkably fine actor, but he had the gift of production, which is often times very much more difficult and far more exacting. He was, indeed, one of the outstanding figures of the Amateur Dramatic Club, at a time when it was making a name for itself by the high quality of its productions when such big figures as M. and Mme. Porter, and Mr. Geo. R. Wingrove were generally in charge of production, and it may safely be said that the high standards of the club were established just around the time when they and Mr. Brent were all devoting their time to the interests of the club. The services of Mr. and Mrs. Brent, who survives him and who was also an extremely fine actress, were marked in March, 1910, by a presentation by the members of the Committee of the Shanghai A.D.C.

It has been decided, after joint consideration between the Ministries of Foreign Affairs and Education, that China should send delegates. A report on family education in China will be drafted by the Ministry of Education for submission to the Conference.

LONDON FINANCE NOTES

Anglo-Oriental Mining

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 20

The accounts of the Anglo-Oriental Mining Corporation, covering a period of sixteen months to June 30 last are available. A net profit of £62,233 is shown for the period, which is equivalent to approximately £48,674 for a twelve-month period. The profit goes against £27,915 in the preceding twelve months and £23,553 in 1932.

A balance on appropriation account after providing for income tax total, £176,526. Arrears of preference dividend on June 30 last amounted to £222,812. The whole of the outstanding loans have been paid during the sixteen months, and the directors are now anxious to settle the arrears of preference dividend.

Subject to approval at the annual meeting on October 3, six months' preference dividend will be paid on October 31. This will take £29,083 out of the cash balance of £73,350 appearing in the balance sheet.

It is stated that no revenue accrued from the Corporation's principal investment, but the substantial increase in profits is attributed to increased dividends and interest, and, in particular, to the resumption of dividends by the Anglo-Oriental and General Investment Trust. Anglo-Oriental £1 preference shares stand at 21s. 6d. and the 5s. Ordinary around 7s.

HARRISONS AND CROSFIELD

As a financial guide to the extent of the recovery in the plantation industry, the forthcoming results of Harrisons and Crosfield may be counted upon to attract considerable interest. Dividend estimates have been wide and various. The interim payment on the Deferred capital has already been doubled at 5 per cent., and a year ago the final was 7½ per cent. While the 10 per cent. payment in 1932-33 was twice that of the previous year, much leeway has to be made up before the company attains its pre-slump dividend records, for between 1924 and 1929 the annual disbursement averaged fully 34 per cent.

INDESTRUCTIBLE PAINT COMPANY

The directors of the Indestructible Paint Company announce that, profits for the first six months of this year show a satisfactory increase over those for the corresponding period of last year. There is no question, they state, that the paint industry in this country is benefiting from a return of confidence, as well as from the excellent weather conditions for exterior decoration during the period. Competition, however, continues to be intense. The company's foreign subsidiaries have under the conditions prevailing, been operated satisfactorily; in France there has been no improvement in the building industry since the beginning of the year, but in Germany sales have considerably increased, and this subsidiary has, in consequence, shown a profit for the first half-year. The interim Ordinary dividend is to be increased from 5 per cent. to 6¼ per cent.; it will be paid on October 8.

SHANGHAI MARKET COMMENT

Shanghai, Oct. 2

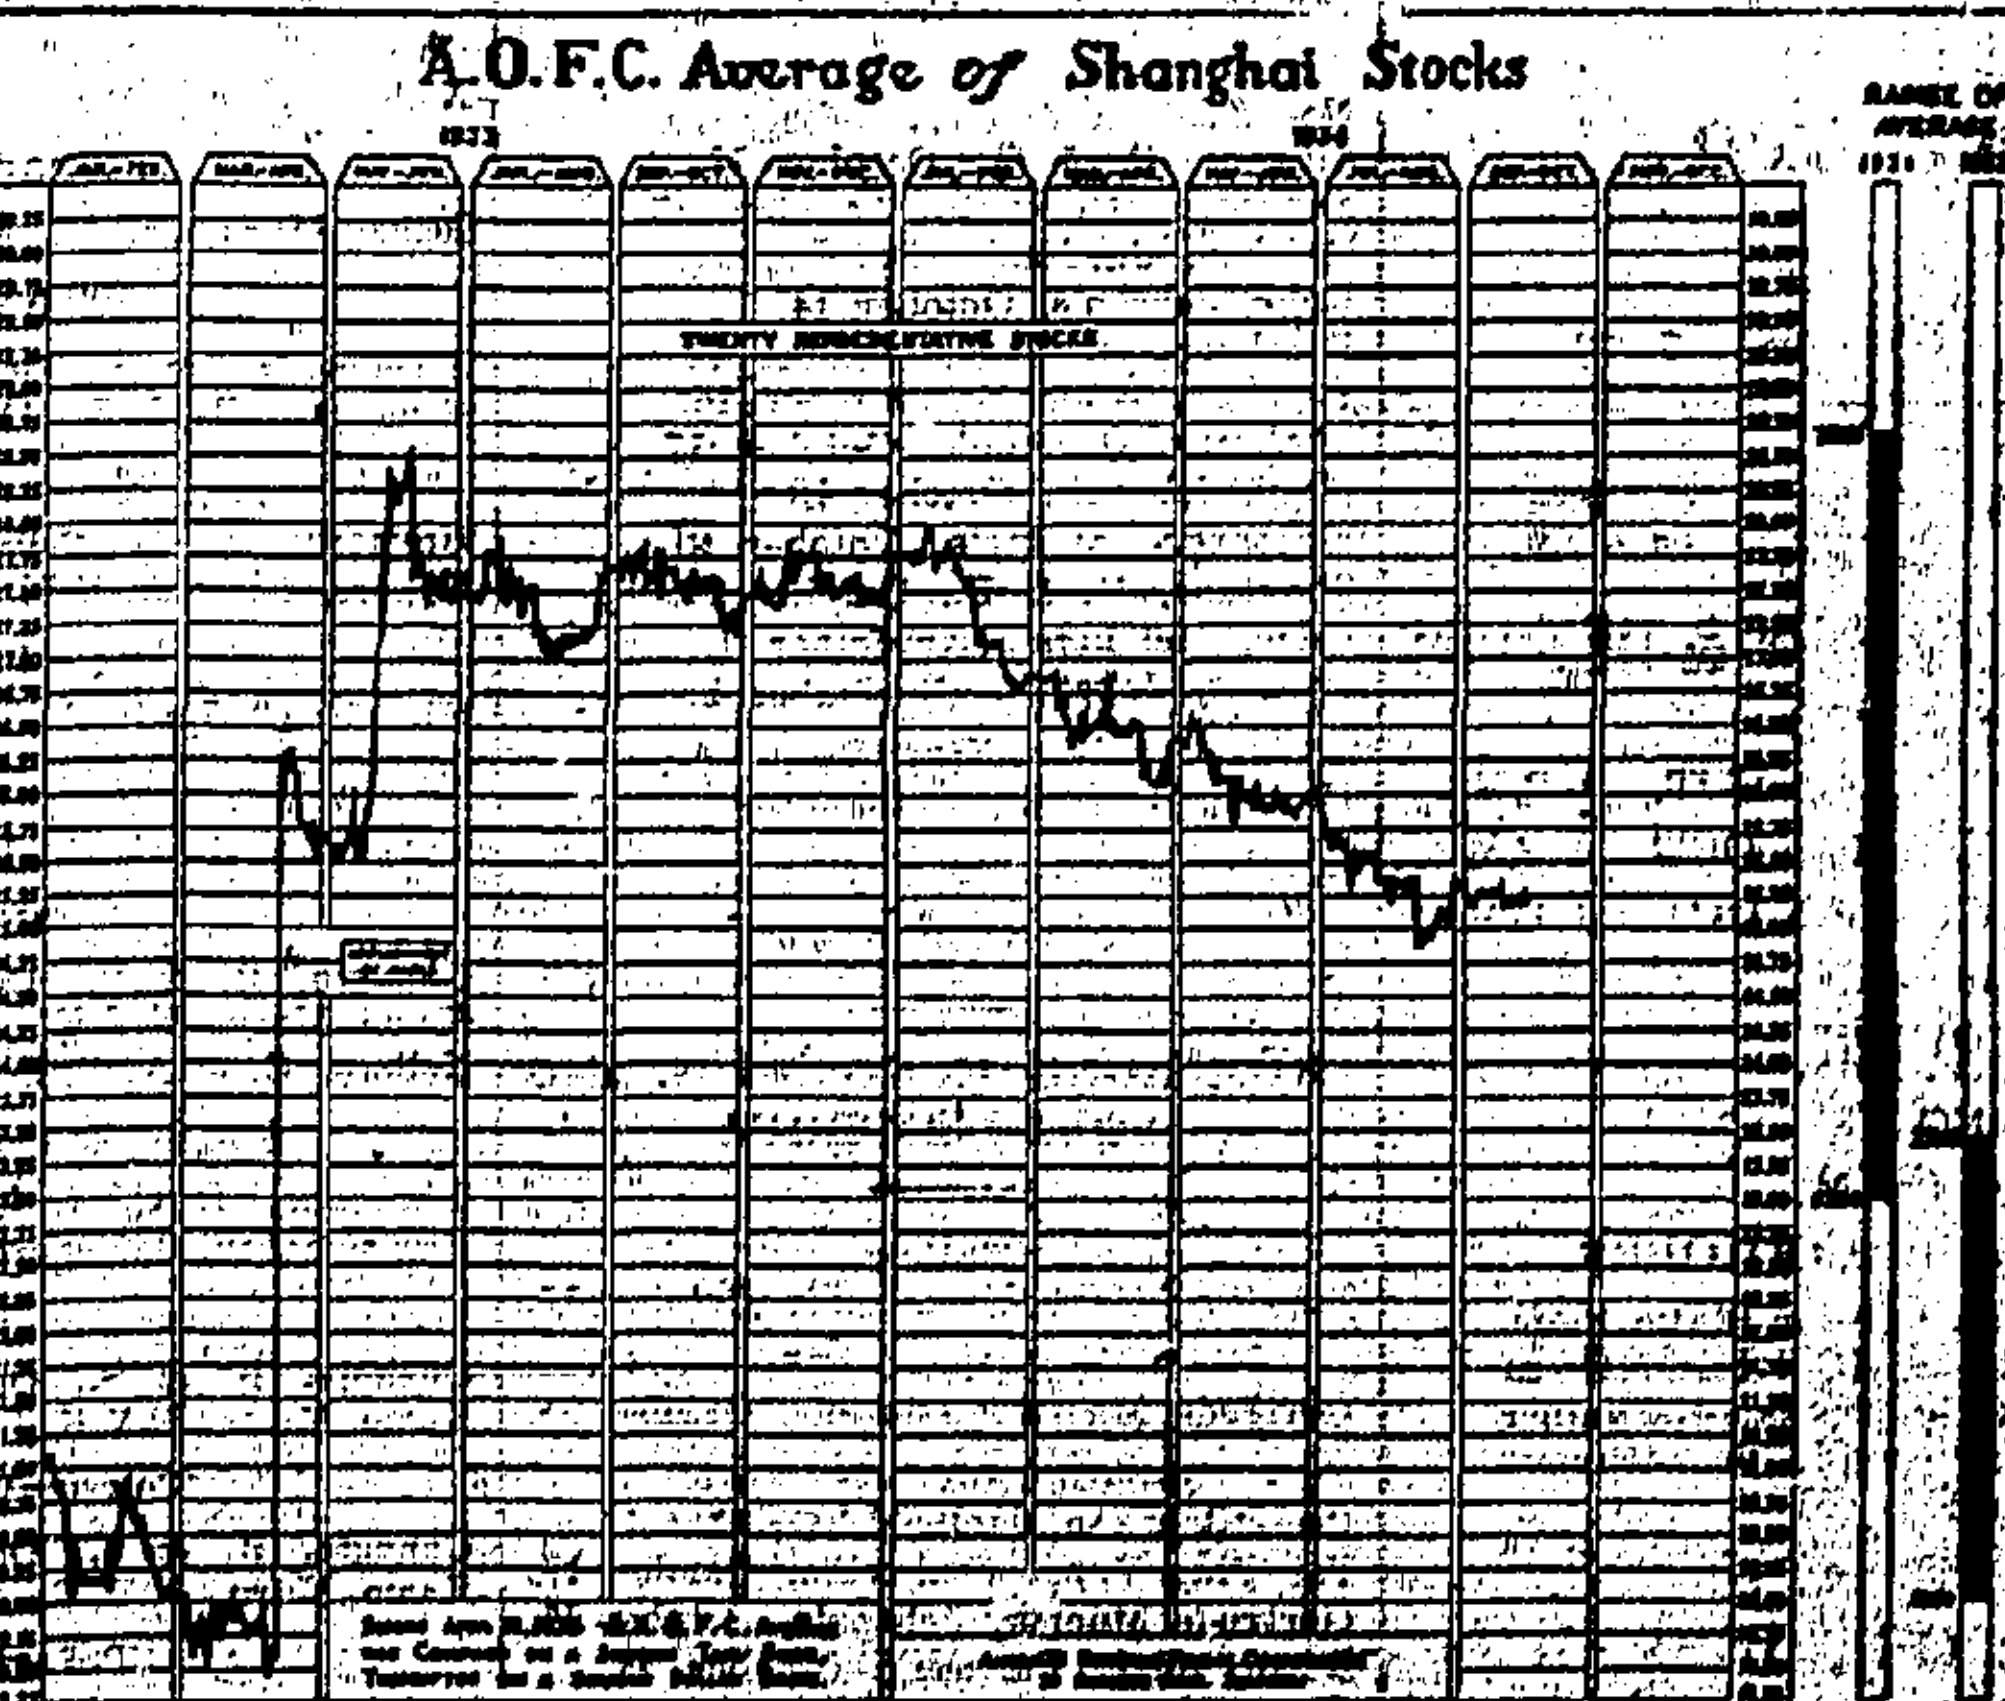

The Shanghai Stock Market remained very quiet last Tuesday. The feature of the debenture market was a line of $50,000 Realty Investment 6% changing hands at 100 cash. After a long period of inactivity, 500 China Realty changed hands at 12.25 for October. The market for Ewos was a little easier with 500 shares changing hands at 10.60 cash. The Shanghai rubber share market was active and steady on that day, 100,000 shares changing hands. The rubber section of the market remained steady on the next day, but with only a half-day session and a decline in all of the primary markets, the volume of business was small. The general market was lifeless with a few Shanghai Power preference shares changing hands at 142.75 cash and Shanghai Telephone 6% debentures being done at 106 cash. Thursday being Settlement Day, and all brokers engaged in clearing their accounts, there was nothing of interest to report. Following a decline in the New York and Singapore raw rubber markets, operators lowered their buying rates on Friday, but did not lower their selling rates, with the result that very few shares changed hands. There was nothing of interest in the general market; 500 New Engineering Ordinary changed hands at 5.07 1/2, 300 Wheelocks at 13.10 cash and 10 Union Insurance at HK$355 cash. The rubber section was not encouraging on the following day, with prices more or less nominal and very few transactions being put through. The feature of the general market was the weakness of Ewos business being done as low as 10.20 for October. In the debenture market over 2 lakhs of Shanghai Power 5 1/2% changed hands at 101. Very quiet conditions prevailed in the local rubber share market on Monday. The firm close of the raw commodity market in New York was not reflected here, and rates were barely steady. The only item of interest in the general market was the continued decline of Ewos, in which stock the following transactions were put through, 1,000 at 10.10 cash, 555 at 10 cash and 500 at 10.10 October, with further sellers at that rate.

GERMAN SHARE MARKET

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Berlin, Oct. 8. The extraordinary activity in the fixed interest securities market that began in the latter half of last week continued with renewed vigour on Monday, very large amounts of these securities changing hands, and prices rising correspondingly. Some gold and mortgage bonds rose by two per cent. and some city loans by as much as 2 1/2. In certain cases the demand for stock was greater than the supply. Shares were in lesser demand but the optimistic feeling released by the heavy buying of fixed interest securities caused most of the standard shares to advance. Call Money 4 to 4 1/4 Young Loan
